

REMARKS REGARDING RESPONSES AND AMENDMENTS1. Amendment of Specification.

The Examiner, at page 2, has objected to the Specification under 35 USC 132 indicating that the specification introduces new matter. Your applicant has amended the Specification to strike references to adhesive and or mechanical fixing at pages 11, 12, 16 and 17. 2. Amendment of Drawings

Corrected Drawings will be submitted.

3. Response to Rejections under 35 USC 112

The Examiner, at page 2-3, paragraphs 3-4, has rejected claims 33-42 as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The Examiner states that the claim(s) contain subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey such information. The Examiner notes that the original specification provides no disclosure of a "groove comprising vane restraining member" as is seen in claim 33. The Examiner states that the wording appears to suggest that the groove includes additional structure which acts to restrain the vane. The Examiner notes that from the original specification the groove itself restrains the vane. The Examiner notes that the original specification provides no disclosure of "adhesive" as is claimed in claim 36.

Your applicant has amended claim 33 to strike the phrase "groove comprising vane restraining member". Your applicant agrees that the original specification discloses that the groove itself restrains the vane. The matter of how the groove restrains the vane

18 allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejections under 35 USC 112 and to include all of 19 the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The Examiner observes the 20 need to avoid mention of adhesive or mechanical fixing means and advises the applicant
21 to insure that the wording of claim 33 makes clear that the groove itself restrains the vane.

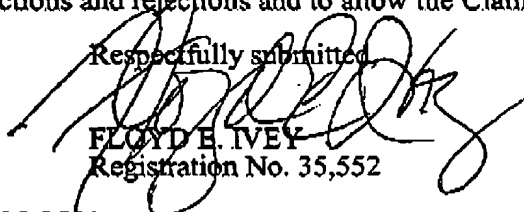

22 Your applicant has cancelled claims 30-32. Your applicant has stricken all
